HYDROGEN. OXYGEN. CARBON. IRON...
DATA MADE UP OF THESE ELEMENTS ARE PROGRAMMED TO BEHAVE ACCORDING TO THE LAWS OF PHYSICS IN THE REAL WORLD
That Yuuri... is he cutting class?
IN OTHER WORDS, EVERYTHING IN GAIA HAS "MASS."
OBJECTS FALL TO THE GROUND DUE TO GRAVITY AND, IN SOME CASES, "BREAK."
HOWEVER, THE VESSELS THAT REPLICATE OUR EXTERNAL APPEARANCES, "AVATARS," ARE IMMUNE TO DESTRUCTION. WHICH IS TO SAY THAT ONE CAN'T BE HURT.

HOWEVER, RECENTLY, IT SEEMS THERE ARE PROGRAMS BUILT SPECIFICALLY TO DAMAGE AVATARS GOING AROUND.
OF COURSE, THOSE PROGRAMS ARE ILLEGAL, AND MERE POSSESSION LEADS TO SEVERE PUNISHMENT.
IF YOU ENCOUNTER THIS KIND OF ATTACK, ALERT THE POLICE IMMEDIATELY.
DON'T BE AFRAID. EVEN IF YOUR AVATAR SUFFERS DAMAGE, YOUR REAL BODY WILL NOT BE HARMED.

VOLUME TWO * CHAPTER FOUR

Following that yellow brick road. Slow progress is progress nonetheless. We've finally arrived at the second volume, which contains chapters four through eight. Thanks to Heid for cleaning and handling the harder redraws in this chapter.

I often wish I were a cyborg so I can translate in my head and have the words show up on the screen. The goal is to translate whenever and wherever. I'm tired of wasting time while taking (and waiting for) public transportation. Even netbooks feel too clunky.

And then there are those times when I have this urge to put all my comic projects on hold so I can give my light novel translations more attention… and watch the Internet riot like Vancouver after a hockey game. Welp. Of course, all of these technicalities could be easily resolved if I could clone myself to translate more.

THIS HAS BEEN A Mixini Studios PRODUCTION

Thanks Fortis for pointing out a kegendary typo

VOLUME TWO * CHAPTER FIVE

I had a chat with scanner-kun recently. He has started watermarking his uploads for a multitude of reasons and asked me if I could add watermarks to my future releases whenever I use his scans. By now you've surely read through the chapter and figured out my answer. But moreover, I agree with him wholeheartedly, so all comic projects done using his scans or mine (which is really just Oz and Tsuina) from this point on will come with a friendly little reminder. Actualy, I wanted to stamp it with ZOMG ILLEGAL TRANSLATION at first, but eventualy decided that the ISBN is sufficient. After all, I intend for these releases to be "evalulation copies" for those able to buy legitimate hard copies (hint: you can still buy things that aren't published in English) and "grace copies" for those who cannot. As far as getting my name out there, well, let's just say that I don't care about people crediting me as long as they don't claim to be the ones who did it.

Anyway, that's enough wall of text and srs talk for now. Next chapter shouldn't take as long to see the light of day, but regardless, feel free to lurk in IRC to keep me motivated. There can never be enough cheerleaders. Bonus points for bringing your own pom-pons. And as always, donate a piece of your mind, body, and soul to umeboshi so that he can continue to protect y'all from my occasional carelessness.

EXACTLY THE SAME.

Is there really a need for this level of realism...?

NO, BEING ABLE TO BE WITH YOU HERE MAKES IT EVEN MORE—

But—

Gaia's creator decided that even this tiny pebble is needed for the new world...

I SUPPOSE THAT ONE OF THESE DAYS I SHOULD PAY A VISIT TO THIS WORLD'S CREATOR AND THANK HIM

VOLUME TWO * CHAPTER SIX

I could've finished this last week and handed it off to Sir Plumstar for proofreading. But then I realized that if I uploaded the chapter too quickly, I'd make liars out of all those who said Mixini is a slow group. So in the name of the moon, I took my sweet time and marathoned both seasons of Arakawa. Then I raged at Shaft for leaving out stuff, so I went and caught up on all twelve volumes of the manga. Then raged some more upon discovering that the series is on hiatus.

Some logistics. It seems that there are only two more chapters to go before I rip apart my extra copy of volume three to scan. I'm thinking of… actually, you know what, screw it, I'm too tired to type out my plans right now.

Oh, and someone should cheer up our dear Franz Darlington-kun by continuing the translations for "the imouto manga," a.k.a. Recently, my sister is unusual. (It should be "has been unusual," but whatever, official English is still official.) StubbornOne started the first chapter, but it seems like lately he's too busy ruining Sugar Dark and Kamisamano Inai Nichiyoubi to continue.

THIS HAS BEEN A Mixini Studios PRODUCTION

VOLUME TWO * CHAPTER SEVEN

Dorothy's you-gonno-get-roped face is the best face ever. Indeed, hell hath no fury like a maiden (or so she claims) whose card you stole and, adding insult to injury, registered under your name. Meh, I'd still pocket the card.

So anyway. Hi again, Internet. I haven't gone anywhere, just occupied with some housekeeping here and there. Decisions have been made, projects have been reshuffled, and priorities have been realigned. All will be clarified when the new website launches…. not that people are any more likely to read what's on the website than in here, but oh well.

(Yeah okay that's enough rambling; back to sleep I go)

VOLUME TWO * CHAPTER EIGHT

It's a secret that's unspoken. It was the cause of all your tears. We'd rip this night wide open; it was the morning that we feared. And there's glass upon this playground. There's cocaine in your church. Is there water in this desert? And they say that you can reach the sky upon your knees and without pride. I'm screaming, but my needs have chained me to the ground. Shine with me, walk with me now.

Yeah, I just had to uh, put on a few melancholic melodies for Haru-Haru. Kid can't catch a break. Props to those who recognize the tune. In other news, the new website is now online, along with some announcements regarding the future direction of projects.
